

Donald R. Nash, PhD, Presented with the Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award by Marquis Who's Who

Dr. Nash has been endorsed by Marquis Who's Who as a leader in the field of immunology

PLYMOUTH, MA, June 28, 2019 Marquis Who's Who, the world's premier publisher of biographical profiles, is proud to present Donald R. Nash with the Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award. An accomplished listee, Dr. Nash celebrates many years' experience in his professional network, and has been noted for achievements, leadership qualities, and the credentials and successes he has accrued in his field. As in all Marquis Who's Who biographical volumes, individuals profiled are selected on the basis of current reference value. Factors such as position, noteworthy accomplishments, visibility, and prominence in a field are all taken into account during the selection process.

With more than 30 years of professional experience to his credit, Dr. Nash is currently retired, having excelled for almost his entire career at the University of Texas Health Science Center at Tyler. Beginning his tenure at the aforementioned institute as an associate professor in 1972, he later accepted the post of the director of the hybridoma core in 1985.

Holding both of these roles until 1992, Dr. Nash remained active as a professor and the associate director of the Center for Pulmonary Infectious Disease Control at the University of Texas Health Science Center until his retirement in 1999. Earlier in his career, Dr. Nash cultivated his skills as a senior research scientist with the World Health Organization in Lausanne, Switzerland, from 1971 to 1972. Prior to attaining this role, he served as an associate professor in the John A. Burns School of Medicine at the University of Hawai'i at Manoa and as a postdoctoral fellow at the Catholic University of Louvain in Belgium. Dr. Nash began his career as a postdoctoral fellow with the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1967.

Fascinated with immunology from an early age, Dr. Nash pursued an education at the American International College in Springfield, MA, where he earned a Bachelor of Arts in 1961. Following this accomplishment, he continued his academic efforts with a Master of Science from Boston College in 1963. Dr. Nash concluded his studies at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, obtaining a Doctor of Philosophy in 1967.

For excellence in his career, Dr. Nash has been the recipient of a number of honors and accolades. Notably, he has previously been featured in the first edition of Who's Who in Science and Engineering and the 23rd edition of Who's Who in the South and Southwest. Although he has accomplished much over the years, Dr. Nash is particularly proud of sponsoring and developing the Center for Pulmonary Infectious Disease Control at the University of Texas Health Science Center at Tyler.

In recognition of outstanding contributions to his profession and the Marquis Who's Who community, Dr. Nash has been featured on the Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement website. Please visit www.Itachievers.com for more information about this honor.
